(Klein Offenseth) They exhibited a truly magnetic pull, enthraling the audience: The stallions of Maas J. Hell Stallion Station drew a great many breeders and horse fans to the centre's grounds in Klein Offenseth, which are home to prestigious stallions such as Calido I, Acodetto and Lassergut Cash and Carry. More space has been created in the newly renovated riding hall of the Maas J. Hell Stallion Station, a development which clearly had an impact on the visitors. The building was light and welcoming, showing the stallions in the very best light.

At the opening this year the Holstein flag was carried for the first time by seven-year-old Calinello by Calido I-Lord and he carried out this job with just as much serenity and sovereignty as his father before him, who is now 26 years old and as imposing and confident as ever. Amongst the other "treasures" at the station is 16-year-old Acodetto by Acorrado I-Contender, who demonstrated his immense jumping capability with great ease and nonchalance.

Around 500 people who are interested in breeding took this opportunity to have a good look at the 16 exceptional stallions at the station, and to use the riding hall's newly-created stands and casino. Commentator Harm Sievers was openly impressed with what he saw: There are a few really really good young stallions in use here, such as Casall's sons Central Park and Conditus, and then Quiwi Capitol and the older stallions like Calido - congratulations."

Two of the station's stallions, Canstakko and Conditus, had returned from the CSI in Mijas, where they had pulled off a number of impressive sporting achievements, for the presentation. Young stallions Central Park and Caspian both looked impressively mature under the saddle. "For us the stallion presentation is an important event as it allows us to give both our long-term clients and those newly interested in the station a comprehensive overview of the stallions," says the station's proprietor Herbert Ulonska, who had the opportunity to welcome many new guests and enjoy a great number of interesting
